

Lofty crane work

Written by Elizabeth Barrett
Friday, 11 March 2011 15:21 -

ELEVATOR REPAIR: A C-Tech crane, high above the city, has been at work the past couple of weeks as damaged concrete from a Dec. 29 explosion is removed from atop an All Points Cooperative grain elevator. President and CEO Ed Foster said the concrete is taken out with jackhammers and blow torches, placed in a loading basket and lowered to the ground. Only one leg is now operational to accept or put grain into trucks for delivery but officials hope to ship by rail this summer.