A good set-up on the tee box is important to shoot well in golf.

The Swedes did that in the Kearney Catholic Invite last Thursday finishing in second place, shooting a score of 422. Grand Island Central Catholic was the team champion with a 395.

“The girls hit good shots off the tee which gave them many opportunities to shoot good scores,” head coach Tara Foster said.

McKinley Harm paced Gothenburg with a 97, leading them to a second place finish.

Foster said that she was proud of the way the girls played.

“I am very pleased with how the girls played at the first invitational of the season,” Foster said. “They finished runner-up as a team for the second year in a row, and had three girls place individually.”

Harm finished fifth, with Taylour Marshall and Mallary McCoy finishing 11th and 12th individually, both shooting 107.

Golf can be a trying game, physically and mentally. When the Swedes faced tough shots, or bad holes they remained positive, Foster said.

She said all the girls struggled with reading the greens and finding the right pace.

“That is something that can be improved with practice, and that is something we plan on doing this week,” Foster said.
